EMERGENCY NUMBERS

8 WEEKS FROM YOUR MOVE

Create a comprehensive list: Begin by making a detailed inventory of all the items you plan to move. This will help you stay organized and ensure nothing gets left behind. Additionally, note down the things you wish to get rid of, so you can make arrangements to sell, donate, or discard them.

Return borrowed items: Prior to your move, remember to return any items you have borrowed from friends, family, or neighbors. This will help maintain good relationships and prevent any last-minute complications.

Transfer school records: If you have children who will be changing schools, make arrangements to transfer their academic records to the new school district. Contact the current school and provide them with the necessary information to ensure a smooth transition for your child.

Keep a copy of your new address: It's essential to have a copy of your new address easily accessible. Keep it in a safe and handy place, such as in your wallet or phone. This will come in handy when updating your address with various entities, such as utility companies, banks, and government agencies.

Book your movers in advance: At least 8 weeks before your moving date, it's crucial to start contacting moving companies to secure their services. Keep in mind that reputable moving companies are often booked several weeks in advance, so reaching out early will ensure you are on their schedule and ready to go on moving day.

6 WEEKS FROM YOUR MOVE

Prepare your packing supplies: It's essential to have your packing supplies ready before you start packing. This includes boxes, packing tape, bubble wrap, packing paper, and markers. As YOUR trusted moving company, we offer great prices on a wide variety of packing supplies that you may need. Feel free to inquire about our supplies when you contact us.

Clean out the pantry: Before your move, take the opportunity to go through your pantry and consume or donate any perishable items or canned goods that you won't be taking with you. This will help minimize waste and ensure you're not transporting unnecessary items to your new home.

Measure your new home: To ensure a smooth transition of your large appliances and furniture, take out a measuring tape and review the available space in your new home. Measure doorways, hallways, and staircases to ensure your larger pieces of furniture can fit through. This step will help you plan the arrangement of your furniture and avoid any surprises on moving day.

Keep a copy of your new address: It's essential to have a copy of your new address easily accessible. Keep it in a safe and handy place, such as in your wallet or phone. This will come in handy when updating your address with various entities, such as utility companies, banks, and government agencies.

Host a yard sale: If you have items you no longer need or want to declutter before your move, consider organizing a yard sale. It's a great way to sell unwanted items and make some extra money. Promote the yard sale in your local community to attract potential buyers. Remember to follow any local regulations or permits required for hosting a yard sale.

4 WEEKS FROM YOUR MOVE

Schedule travel arrangements: If you are moving out of the area, it's important to make travel arrangements for your family. This includes booking flights, hotel accommodations, and car rentals if needed. Plan and secure these arrangements well in advance to ensure a smooth transition.

Arrange transportation for your pets: If you have pets, make sure to plan their transportation as well. Contact pet transportation services or make arrangements for their safe travel. Ensure that all necessary documentation, such as health certificates and vaccination records, are up to date.

Determine your packing preferences: Decide how much packing you would like to handle yourself. If you prefer assistance with packing, This Is How We Move It offers professional packing services to ensure your belongings are packed safely and efficiently. Let us know your preferences during the booking process.

Contact the post office for a Change of Address form: Get in touch with your local post office to obtain a Change of Address form. This will ensure that your mail is forwarded to your new address. It's important to update your address with various entities, including:

Friends and Family

Utility Companies

Insurance Companies

Banks and Financial Institutions

Creditors

Local Government Agencies

Healthcare Providers

Veterinarian

Schools

Newspaper and Magazine Subscriptions

Updating your address with these organizations will help ensure a seamless transition and prevent any disruptions in your services or communication.

1 WEEK FROM YOUR MOVE

Complete packing a few days before your move: Aim to finish packing all your belongings a few days prior to your move date. This will allow you time to handle any last-minute tasks and ensure a smoother moving day. As you pack, be sure to label your boxes with appropriate descriptions such as “Fragile,” “Do not load,” or any other relevant instructions. This will help the us handle your items with care and prioritize their placement.

Dispose of hazardous items: Identify and dispose of any items that are considered hazardous or not permitted to be moved. These items may include flammable substances, chemicals, perishable goods, and other materials that pose a risk during transportation. Safely dispose of these items according to local regulations or contact the appropriate authorities for guidance.

Notify your building manager and reserve parking space: If you reside in a building with a building manager or have reserved parking spaces at your old and new addresses, notify them in advance about your move. Request to reserve the elevator for the designated time frame and secure parking spaces for the This Is How We Move It truck. This will facilitate the loading and unloading process, ensuring efficient access to your belongings.

Arrange for item pick-ups: If you have any arrangements for items to be picked up, such as cleaners or prescriptions from the pharmacy, make sure to schedule those accordingly. Coordinate the timing with the service providers to ensure a smooth transition and minimize any potential delays or inconveniences.

NOTES:

1 DAY BEFORE YOUR MOVE

- Empty, clean and defrost your refrigerator at least 24 hours before your moving date. Pack a box of things you might need at your new home. Cleaning supplies, disposable plates and cups, bathroom items, trash bags are a necessity. Pack a separate box with blankets, sheets and pillows for your bed.

- Pack a box of essential items for your new home: As you pack your belongings, set aside a box of essential items that you might need immediately upon arriving at your new home. Include items such as cleaning supplies, disposable plates and cups, bathroom essentials, and trash bags. These items will come in handy for cleaning, organizing, and settling in quickly.

- Pack a separate box with bedding essentials: Prepare a separate box containing blankets, sheets, and pillows for your bed. Having these essentials readily available will allow you to create a comfortable and cozy sleeping environment as soon as you arrive at your new home. Label the box clearly so it's easy to find amidst the other moving boxes.

ON YOUR MOVING DAY

- Be present when the driver arrives and during the loading process: It's important to be available when the moving truck and crew arrive. Ensure that someone is present to direct the movers and answer any questions they may have. Being on hand throughout the loading process will help ensure that everything is properly handled and accounted for.

Accompany the driver during inventory: When the movers conduct the inventory of your belongings, it's advisable to accompany them. Check the condition of your goods as they are being loaded onto the truck. This allows you to have a firsthand assessment of the condition of your items and address any concerns or discrepancies immediately.

Perform a final tour of your home: Before leaving your old home, take a final walk-through to ensure that nothing has been overlooked. Check all rooms, closets, and storage areas to make sure everything has been packed and loaded onto the truck. This will provide peace of mind and help prevent leaving any important items behind.

Provide instructions to the movers at your new location: Once you arrive at your new home, instruct the movers on where to place boxes and furniture. Clearly communicate your preferences for room arrangements and ensure that items are placed in the designated areas. This will save you the hassle of moving things around later.

Sign the bill of lading and verify your new address and phone number: Before the movers depart, carefully review and sign the bill of lading. Ensure that your new address and phone number are accurately recorded. This is an important step to confirm that all the necessary information is documented correctly.

Be present to pay the driver: When the move is completed, be available to pay the driver. Payment can typically be made with a personal check or credit card, so ensure you have the necessary payment method ready. Being present for payment allows for a smooth transaction and ensures that all financial matters are settled.

PACKING TIPS:

Start with a packing party: Invite friends or family over for a packing party. Play some upbeat music, order pizza, and turn packing into a social event. It will make the process more fun and efficient.

Use colorful labels: Get creative with labeling your boxes. Use different colored markers or stickers for each room to easily identify where each box belongs. It'll add a touch of fun and make unpacking a breeze.

Pack a moving day survival kit: Prepare a box with essentials for moving day. Include snacks, water, toiletries, a change of clothes, phone chargers, and any other items you'll need immediately upon arrival. Keep it easily accessible for a smooth transition.

Get creative with cushioning: Instead of using traditional packing materials, repurpose soft items like blankets, towels, or clothing to protect fragile items. It's an eco-friendly and cost-effective way to keep your belongings safe during the move.

Take a picture of your electronics: Before disconnecting your electronics, take a quick photo of the cords and connections. It'll be a helpful reference when setting them up again in your new home.

Pack an "Open First" box: Pack a box with essentials you'll need right away in your new home. Include items like toilet paper, a shower curtain, a tool kit, and basic kitchen supplies. Label it as "Open First" for easy access.

Have a farewell gathering: Before leaving your old home, host a farewell gathering with your neighbors or friends. It's a wonderful way to say goodbye, create lasting memories, and start your new chapter on a positive note.

Create a moving playlist: Curate a playlist of your favorite songs to keep you entertained while packing and unpacking. Sing along and groove to the music as you make your move.

Celebrate your progress: Take a moment to celebrate each packing milestone. Treat yourself to a small reward or indulge in a favorite snack. It will help keep the excitement and motivation high throughout the process.

Fill up boxes completely: Ensure that you fill each box to its capacity. Utilize extra packing paper or soft items like clothing or towels to fill any empty spaces. This will prevent items from shifting during the move and minimize the risk of damage.

Fill up boxes completely: Ensure that you fill each box to its capacity. Utilize extra packing paper or soft items like clothing or towels to fill any empty spaces. This will prevent items from shifting during the move and minimize the risk of damage.

Purchase supplies from a moving warehouse: Consider buying packing supplies from a specialized moving warehouse rather than general retailers like U-Haul or Home Depot. Moving warehouses often offer higher-quality supplies that are specifically designed for moving, providing better protection for your belongings.

Avoid overpacking boxes: Be mindful not to overpack boxes to the point where they become too heavy or risk crushing. Distribute the weight evenly and consider using smaller boxes for heavier items. It's better to have more boxes with a manageable weight than a few extremely heavy ones.

Pack glassware vertically: When packing glassware, such as cups or glasses, place them vertically in the box. This minimizes the chance of them breaking or getting damaged during transportation. Wrap each piece individually with packing paper or bubble wrap for added protection.

Safely pack stemware: For delicate stemware, it's best to pack them in a smaller box first, specifically designed for stemware or glassware. Once packed, place the smaller box into a larger dish pack for additional cushioning and protection. This double-layered packing approach will help safeguard your stemware during the move.

Prioritize proper packing to save costs: Remember that investing time and effort in packing items correctly is more cost-effective than having to replace damaged belongings. Take the necessary precautions, use adequate packing materials, and pack items securely to minimize the risk of breakage or other damage.

Pack books in small boxes: Books can become heavy very quickly, so it's best to pack them in smaller boxes. This will make the boxes easier to lift and carry, reducing the risk of strain or injury. Use sturdy boxes specifically designed for carrying heavier items like books.

Use large boxes for light items: When packing light items such as blankets, pillows, or clothing, opt for larger boxes. This allows you to maximize space and efficiency by packing multiple light items together. Just ensure not to overstuff the boxes, maintaining a manageable weight for lifting and stacking.

By incorporating these tips into your packing process, you'll ensure that your books are packed safely and that light items are efficiently organized. These strategies will help you streamline your move and make the unpacking process easier.
